

Aliens Love Underpants

Hi everyone, some drama ideas for you linked to the topic 'Aliens Love Underpants'.

We always start our drama classes with a warm-up and a stretch.

You will be able to see this on one of the videos.

This story is linked to our space theme and is a real hit with the children.

When we are sharing stories with the children, we love to bring them to life. This is obviously a funny story with lots of rhyming. We can encourage children to rhyme when reading the story....

As it is a fun story, why not encourage your children to tell a funny joke or make up a funny story!!!

A fun game to play with your children here would be Underpant Musical Statues. Play the music, dance around but whenever you say Underpants they have to freeze!! Children love this game.

Through role play you can ask the children how the aliens get around (spaceships). They can pretend to be in a spaceship. Ask them to press the buttons and make funny sounds.

As we know Aliens speak in a different language. Gobble dee Gook !!

I will send a video of a funny gobble dee gook conversation for you to see, maybe you could encourage your children to have a conversation in Gobbledeegook too!!

Explain to your children that there isn't any gravity in Space and this means they would float. Put on some slow, quiet music and see if they can move in slow motion imagining that they are floating!!! Then ask them to move normally, walking then jumping then spinning around.... And then Floating again!!

Look out for the space poem too.

Have fun Aliens.

Abi
