

Tuesday 12th May 2020

Good Morning Limetree Yellow ☺

I hope you had lots of fun learning about Dentists and looking after your teeth yesterday. Have you checked on your egg experiment today? Can you see any changes?

Today you're going to be learning about a different occupation. Occupation is a big word, but it's just another word for what job someone does. Today you're going to be thinking about the role of a postman or a postwoman. Do you know who your postman/postwoman is? Do you know what they do? Their job is very important!

Today you're going to read 'The Jolly Postman' by Janet and Allan Ahlberg. This is a very exciting book, as it's full of letters from characters who I think you will recognise from other stories. Today you will persevere to write your own letter, as well as think about other ways to communicate with your family and friends.

Have a lovely day everyone!

Love from,

Miss Cassidy

